JinkoSolar's motion for summary determination of non-infringement will be granted by ITC JUDGE within two weeks

11/13/2019

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 13, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- JinkoSolar Holding Co., Ltd. (NYSE: JKS) ("JinkoSolar"), one of the largest and most innovative solar module manufacturers in the world, today announced that the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") in U.S. International Trade Commission Investigation No. 337-TA-1151 ("the 1151 Investigation") issued an order indicating that JinkoSolar's motion for summary determination of non-infringement will be granted within two weeks.

The 1151 Investigation was initiated by Hanwha Q CELLS in March 2019 on the basis of a single patent asserted against JinkoSolar. In September, the ALJ interpreted the meaning and scope of the patent claims, and today announced that JinkoSolar's motion for summary determination will be granted and the hearing has been stayed indefinitely.

"From the beginning, we have said that Hanwha Q CELLS' complaints were without technical or legal merit, and were only meant to slow us down. We are very pleased with today's order, which validates our position," said Kangping Chen, CEO of JinkoSolar. "JinkoSolar believes healthy, fair competition is good for customers and we look forward to continuing to do what we do best: selling innovative, high-powered solar modules to our customers."
